

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY
WOODROW WILSON SCHOOL of PUBLIC & INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS
MASTERS in PUBLIC POLICY

The Master's in Public Policy (M.P.P.) program at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs is designed to meet the needs of rising leaders in the public service professions, including domestic and international government agencies and nonprofit organizations.

Who Should Attend

Applicants to the program must have had at least seven years of relevant public service work experience. They must demonstrate leadership, creativity, a commitment to public service, and the intellectual ability to thrive in a demanding academic environment.

Program Highlights

It provides rigorous on-campus training in quantitative reasoning and policy analysis, preparing degree candidates to return to their careers with the intellectual breadth, organizational skills, and self-confidence necessary to assume leadership positions in an increasingly complex public service environment.
